About Me.

I've pursued various occupations and gotten good at various tasks along my journey, I keep pushing to achieve higher goals and test the limits of my innate capacity. I have a wide range of interests from philosophy, reading, tech and health. I'm developing my coding skills by taking courses online via Freecodecamp. I have an interest in tech start-ups and thinking outside of the box to provide solutions to real-world problems. I founded my first Crypto news business in October 2023 which focuses on short-form articles which educate people on various ways to make money with crypto. My goal is to build my experience with building businesses and scaling them.
